Course information:

Drawing Techniques: Develop your drawing and observational skills while exploring the art of working with graphite pencils, charcoal pencils, pastel pencils, and coloured/water-soluble pencils. This course will explore a variety of subjects including still-life, portrait, life, imagination, and abstract. Suitable for beginners and returners.

Life Drawing & painting (drop-in): Mainly longer poses, sometimes with two models, it combines guidance to "do your own thing" with an optional structured course exploring approaches to drawing and art materials. The main emphasis is on how to draw what you see.

Drawing & painting Nature Combine enjoying paying homage to nature via observation of natural forms still-life, figure, and landscape, while learning about use of art materials.

Art for all Returners are assisted to develop their chosen themes. Beginners may follow the tutor's group projects to learn about use of art materials. The tutor may also be carrying on with his own art work.

Introduction to Life Drawing techniques: Depending upon experience of individual students, the tutor combines an optional structured course, individual guidance, encouragement to pursue your own work and ideas, exploration of different approaches to drawing and art materials.

Portraits (drop-in): Capture the likeness and character of the human face in a portrait drawing and painting class. You will have a variety of models to work from. Teaching will be appropriate for beginners and people with experience.

Contemporary Portraiture: Explore a range of faces from "real life" sitters while learning the basics of traditional portraiture, assisted according to your individual interests and experience.

Creative Printmaking: A series of 6 week courses introducing fine art printmaking processes. Covers drypoint, 'monoprint-stencil-transfer', optionally also relief prints from lino, and solar plate etching. No previous knowledge is required, but returners with some printmaking experience are also welcome, plus students familiar with other art forms or wishing to supplement their studies. Beginners will be introduced to methods via demonstration and previous examples. Returners will be assisted to develop their own themes. The tutor may also be working on his own prints.

Life Drawing and Painting: Working directly from a life model and using long poses, it is for those happy to work without direct tuition, while benefitting from the common group purpose. The artist/tutor, while being available for general advice, will be mainly making a contribution by being seen to be getting on with his own drawing. Among those finding these sessions beneficial are students seeking to supplement studies elsewhere while putting together a portfolio, or wishing to resolve works for exhibition, as well as art teachers seeking creative time for themselves.

Life drawing & painting Studio Day: As above for a once per month Sunday all day setup.
